The regional airport of Rügen, is created from a former agricultural Airfield, located approximately 8 kilometers southwest of Bergen near the B 96

The created equipment was used from 1982 to 1990 exclusively as a basic airfield for agricultural aircraft for the island of Rügen. From the summer of 1990 was offered for the first time rides, some with agricultural school machines of the type Z-37 and the largest single-engine biplane in the world of type AN-2.

The great popularity of flights over complaints, are for many vacationers an unforgettable experience. Several former members of the INTERFLUG from the agricultural operation establish the Ostsee-Flug-Rügen GmbH.

In the second year of existence, there were already beside tours and charter flights also day trips to Bornholm, as well as scheduled flights to Berlin and Hamburg. Since 1993, has Güttnin an asphalt runway with 900 x 20 m.
